

Future Fruit: The Next Generation

September 4, 2022

Psalm 145; Judges 2:10

This morning we continued our series, Future Fruit. We want to be a multiplying church that helps the next generation fall in love with Jesus. In the book of Judges, the Scriptures offer us a glimpse of the dangers that come with a failure to pass along the greatness of God to the next generation.

Getting Started

What is something that you have passed on to your kids or hope to pass on to someone someday?

Digging Deeper

- The text above did not end well. Finish the statement with how you hope it would be for the next generation of people that you know. “And there arose another generation who...”
- Who was someone in your life that passed on their passion for God to you? Share about how they did that.
- What is one way that you can pass on your passion for God to the next generation? (Parent your kids, open your home, give your time, etc.)
- Take time to pray for the next generation as a group tonight. Ask God to use you to show them the greatness of God.
