

Victories & Valleys: A study in the life of David

March 24, 2024

2 Samuel 23:1-7

On Sunday we concluded our Victories & Valleys series by looking at the last written words of David. Who is suitable to serve as a king? David's final words focus on righteousness, justice, and the fear of God while emphasizing David's acknowledgement of needing transformation.

Digging Deeper

- From the text above, what do you think makes a leader suitable for kingship according to David's Last Words?
- Why do you think David refers to God as the 'God of Jacob' when acknowledging his need for transformation? How have you experienced God's transformative power in your life, and how can you share that with others?
- Toran used the metaphors of a sunny day or a thorny vine to demonstrate how leaders can positively or negatively impact those around them. What qualities or actions can you identify in your life that resemble the invasive vine or the sunny day after rain? Is there anything you sensed God doing or saying in this area of your life on Sunday?
- What do you want your last words to be? Take a few minutes to think about that and share with the group. How can you live those last words out today?
